Commencement Procession Song

The tramp of youthful, restless feet
  Is heard, a joyous sound
As out from school to larger life
  Our eager steps are bound.
A Light of Days to Come for us
  Thou art, O School, for aye,
And all whose shining path is marked
  Up Learning's golden way.

All honor be to him who came,
  The stalwart pioneer
In love of freedom, love of truth,
  With vision of the seer!
A gleam of days to come! It shone
  O'er sunset water broad
And home and school, with purpose firm
  He reared as unto God.

All honor to his children, too,
  Who still that vision bore
And home and learning ever held
  Above all earthly store.
O Glow of Days to Come make warm
  Anew each heart of youth
To carry on through all of life
  The fathers' zeal for truth!

A thousand thousand voices join
  From schools o'er all the land.
From vaulted city, sunny plain
  They sound, a mighty band:
"O Fire of Days to come, of that
  America to be
Where brotherhood shall rule, we burn
  For aye with flames for thee!"

National Honor Society

NEARLY every high school student has the ambition to be presented with a torch pin, the emblem of the National Honor Society. Every year fifteen per cent of the members are chosen from the honor roll of the graduating class as members of this organization. The members are selected because of their character, scholarship, leadership and service.

Holland High School organized as a branch of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools in 1923. Since that time many other schools have organized chapters, thereby making it a greater honor for students to become members of the society. The fact that a person is a member of this organization does not give him honor only in high school but after he graduates he is able to get a better position or it helps to give him a firmer footing at college.

The society is created not merely to honor the members for past services but to encourage them for future undertakings. So they "light the torch as a pledge of increased devotion to the pursuit of knowledge and growth in wisdom"; they "bear the torch as a token of enthusiasm for the attainment of unsullied character"; they "lift the torch as a symbol of desire to render service to our God, our country and our fellowmen"; and they "fling the torch to hands outstretched as a challenge to other lives to 'keep the faith'."

Holland High School is the only school to have an Alumni Association. Thus, the friendships are not forgotten but are renewed at the yearly meetings where the good old high school days are brought to mind.

THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING

THE SENIOR PLAY of '31 under the direction of Miss Lucille Lindsley proved to be a huge success.

During a financial depression, we thought it might be difficult to get crowds for our play, but the audiences of this year's senior play surpassed all previous attendances. People were heard to remark, "Let's go to see it again!"

Miss Lindsley tried a novel experiment with this year's play cast. All major characters were honor students. The result of this idea was that she had little difficulty with the cast learning their lines.

Ruth Ver Hey, the heroine, who played the part of Ethel Simmons, won the sympathy of her audience with her sweetness; while her ardent lover, Edgar Landwehr (Chester Binney), expressed his "dumb" sincerity. Virginia Kooiker, as Mrs. Simmons, portrayed the part of Ethel's mother most creditably. Peter Boter, as Mr. Simmons, the jolly prevaricator, rocked the audience with laughter. Sherwood Price, as the villainous Roger Shields, almost upset Mr. Simmons' well-laid plans. Elizabeth Szekely, in the role of Letty Lythe, the movie queen, placed Mr. Binney in a most peculiar situation. John Good, the prize fighter-director, Donald Swift, almost killed Mr. Binney as well as himself in the famous "fight in the dark." Lila Wilson, "the lithper," and Sally Otis, her friend, respectively Ruth Van Oss and Estelline Tinholt, carried out their characters very well. Crystal Van Anroy, the maid, and "Teed" Van Zanden, a taxi driver, added color to the performance. Helen Raffenaud took the part of the dancing teacher and put Mr. Simmons and Mr. Binney in a most perplexing situation. Mrs. Jackson and the girls, Charlotte Elton, Marion Klassen, Helen Boone, Lucile Ver Schure, Isabelle Van Ark, and Lillian Mulder, made the whole town talk.

Miss Lindsley says this year's play cast has left an impression with her that will never die. She says they were among the most co-operative and pleasant people she has ever known, and she loves them all.

Here's to the health and happiness of the cast of the Senior Play!

Class Prophecy

THE following account of his experiences was given by Arnold Van Zanten, a famous sailor who joined the navy to see the world. Of the many millions of people encountered in his travels, he records only those who were former high school associates of his.

"The first with whom I came in contact were Howard Teusink and Cornelius Driscol, great detectives, working on a very strange case of trying to discover the people who were continually shop-lifting diamonds from Woolworth's. The next stop was at New York where I attended an opera and was delighted to see Elizabeth Szekely taking the leading role.

"We then crossed the Atlantic. While in London I attended the English Derby Races and became very excited as I noticed on the program that one of the jockies was Wallace Masselink riding the world renowned horse 'Highland Lady.' You can bet your life that all my jack was staked on her. While hurrying through the crowd I bumped headlong into His Majesty Mr. Hinga, who had just received the appointment as Ambassador to England.

"Scotland was our next stop. While riding through the country a very large mansion was pointed out to us. My curiosity was aroused and upon investigating I found that it belonged to my former patroness, Miss Lindsley, and her husband Mr. Ed Donivan. They entertained me royally and gave me a big dinner party. Among my acquaintances and old friends were the famous Scotland Yard detectives, Kenneth Karsten and Gorden Elferdink. The navy was then suddenly called to Russia to extinguish Ed Lanwehr's Bolshevistic movement.

"In Germany a noted scientist, Jim Davis, working on gysifistic gas for the extermination of mosquitoes, came to see me. I was just in time to bid Bud Slagh farewell as he was boarding the Zeppelin on an expedition to the moon.

"Whom do you suppose I found in Paris as the model for the great painter, Charles Loyer? None other than Isabelle Van Ark. Another well-known citizen of this city was Madame Ver Beek, who was setting the styles for the world.

"Being lured away to the romantic country of Spain I happened upon a bull fight, and to my utter amazement saw the matador, Donald Albers, rushing forward to meet a blood-thirsty bull. Among the lovely Senoritas present were Beatrice Tretheway, Thelma Vrieling and Estelline Tinholt. Stopping off at Italy I went to hear the famous violinist, Bud Prins. Of course peanuts had to be purchased from the peanut vendor, James Quist. Having lost his monkey, Don Te Roller was playing the role.

"We travelled downward to Africa where I renewed my acquaintance with Harry Beekman, a great game hunter. To appease my hunger I stopped at a tavern in Cairo where I discovered Gerald Fassen chef of the cafe. After visiting with him a while I found out that he had married Ada Dykstra. The two had come here to seek their fortune. As we travelled into the country we saw in the distance a small object trying to scale a pyramid. To my dismay I discovered that it was Albert Gerritson trying to win a large sum of money given to the first person who could climb to the top of the pyramid.

"In Arabia Shiek Lievense highly entertained me. One of the features of the program was inspecting the harem, where the favorite wives of the shiek were arranged in descending powers—Marjorie Bender, Helen Shaw, Edna De Weerd, Sue Leland and 'Aunt Nelly' Perkoski. Sailing on and on I arrived in India and was greatly shocked to hear that Margaret Jackson had married the Indian Prince Rama.

"In China I visited a mission school and was surprised to see Bill Vander Ven and Marie Van Wezel teaching there. Bill was instructor of music and Marie instructor of domestic arts. Naturally, there was a budding romance between the two.

"The next stop was in Japan. Here was located a delightful tea room operated by Vivian Visscher and David Mowrer. Upon leaving the tea room I saw a large crowd gathered in the street. It was a revival meeting led by the missionary from the Canary Islands, Cornie Westrate and his wife, the former Charlotte Elton. The subject of his sermon for the day was 'Thou shalt not steal.'

"I finally came to Australia and stopped off at the great ostrich farm operated by Mr. and Mrs. (the former Helen Boone) Teed Van Zanden. In Hawaii Helen Raffenaud, dancing to the tune of Pete Boter's guitar, gave a clever entertainment.

"I then went northward for many days, finally cruising into Alaskan water where John Good, my former chief of police, was spearing whales. At least he could make them behave. Upon entering California all of us saw upon many billboards pictures of Ruth Ver Hey taking the place of Clara Bow, and Paul Hume, as second Gary Cooper advertised in their new picture 'The Sky is the Limit.' Newspapers were full of accounts about Vernon Klomparens, a United States Army commander, who had quieted a revolt in Mexico to overthrow the government.

"Traveling around to the east through the Panama Canal, imagine my surprise at seeing Ruth Van Oss tanned like a native basking in the sunshine eating cocoanuts.

"Having completed this trip around the world I took a little visit back to my old home town and to my great delight found Franklin Van Alsburg coaching the great Hope eleven."

High School Song

Oh, when you hear the roll of the big bass drum,
Then you will know that the time has come,
For the loyal hearts and the brave and true,
To get out and boost for the best high school
That ever waved it's pennants gay,
That ever stood for the best in every way.

CHORUS:

We're loyal to Holland High, our Holland High,
Brave hearts that beat for you would do or die,
Your honor is dear to us, and that is why
There's no school like our school, our dear old Holland High.

If you would know why we excel,
The secret to you we will tell,
We're loyal, and to each other true,
And in whatever we start to do,
Our shoulders to the wheel we lay,
We all push together, and we win the day.

We all pull together, and we make it pay,
We push and we pull, but all the same way;
We stand by our mayor and our council, too,
We stand by our faculty, you bet we do!
For they stand by us through thick and thin.
We all push together and we can't help but win.

Was ist das?
Was ist das?
Das ist Holland,
Das ist was,
Ja, Ja, You bet, ain't it?
Sure!
